HARDING IS NOT IMPLICATED IN OIL SCANDAL
VANDERLIP HAS NO FACTS TO GIVE COMMITTEEANNUAL FIELD DAY
OF SCHOOLS TO BE HELD ON MARCH 7

Program Will Be Given
in Hartselle Again
This Spring

GREAT CROWD TO BE ENTERTAINED

Teachers Are Named to Conduct Various Contests

The largest event in the public school world of the county will occur
on March 7 at Hartselle when the annual field day exercises will be given
under the auspices of the public school
teachers' association of the entire county.

For a number of years this occasion
has been attracting much interest and large crowds.

By the authority of the county superintendent of education Prof. E. L.
Hayes, a holiday will be declared in all the schools of the county that take part in the field day program and all teachers who attend the exercises are also to be granted a holiday.

The program has been prepared by the executive committee of the teachers of the county, three prominent
members of which committee are Prof.
T. J. Wear, principal of the Slip-up school, chairman; Prof. F. E. Burleson,
principal of the Moulton Heights
school, and Prof. George T. Woodruff,
principal of the Ryan public school.

The exercises will begin promptly
at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the high school auditorium, when there
will be contests in declamation, recitation,
music, sight reading, writing,
poem writing and literary essays.

There will also be contests in which
the girls will compete in needle work
fancy work, etc. All the contests
mentioned will be indoors and Prof. J.
H. Riddle will supervise them. The directors of the literary work are Professor P. D. Scrivner, principal of the Albany high school, and Professor G.
G. Glover, of the Hartselle schools.

The directors of the high school
girls contests are the following teachers of the county: Miss Louise Robertson, Miss Ruby Gibson and Miss Bessie Parker. The directors of the Junior girls contests are Mrs. G. G.
Glover, Miss Gertrude Prince, and Miss Ann Alexander.

The directors of spelling are Miss Evyne Wynn and Miss Hughes. Director of drawing, Miss Broscoe and Miss
Janie Elkins, director of reading, Mrs.
Kimball Jones and Miss Tatum. Directors of writing and poems, Miss Simms and Mr. Ponder. Director of sewing Miss Dubose. Director of girls
basket ball, E. E. Weaver.

Saturday afternoon the outdoor contests will be staged. The directors of the field contests for boys over 15 are
Mr. Teel, Kirk Howell and Birchum
Wright. Directors for boys under 15 years, C. K. Parker, S. O. Manor, and William Morris. The General Secretary of the county teachers association is Professor G. G. Glover of Hart-
selle and its treasurer is Prof. E. L.
Hayes, county superintendent of education. The meeting will last the entire day Friday. Lunches will be served by the Parent-Teacher Association of Hartselle.

Committee Action
Is Given Approval

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15—
Former action of the state democratic executive committee, in calling primaries for March 11
and May 13 and in making rules
and regulations therefor, was approved at a meeting of the committee here today by a vote
of 29 to 5.

A resolution by E. L. Clarkson,
asking reversal of commission
action, was lost by a vote of 29
to 7.

William Gibbs McAdoo is pictured as he left the U. S. Senate Office Building in Washington, where he appeared before a Senate investigating committee to defend his acceptance of an annual retainer from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate.

TAX PROVISIONS
EXPLAINED AGAIN

Despite the fact that provisions of the income tax law have been published time and again, many persons still do not seem to understand just who is required to make returns and who is not, according to Deputy Collector
Lon Cunningham, who will be here
today, Saturday and Monday, at the Decatur postoffice and the Princess theater to assist in making out reports.

Mr. Cunningham stated that many
single persons, for various reasons
do not believe they should make out
a tax report. The law is clear on this point, however, he pointed out. Every single person whose income is $1,000
or more is required to make a report.
Exemptions may prevent the citizen
from paying any tax, but the report
must be made just the same.

It was pointed out also that all married persons, whose income is $2,000
or more, regardless of any exemptions
which may exist, must make a report.

Mr. Cunningham's itinerary for the remaining time limit for making income taxes is as follows: February 15,
Decatur; 16 Decatur; 18 Albany; 19
Hartselle; 20 Elkmont; 21 Ardmore;
22 Athens; 23 Athens; 25 Madison; 26
Gurley; 27 Paint Rock; 28 Huntsville;
29 Huntsville; March 1 Huntsville; 3
Bridgeport; 4 Stevenson; 5 Scottsboro
6 Albany; 7 Albany; 8 Albany; 10 Decatur; 11 Decatur; 12 Decatur; 13
Huntsville; 14 Huntsville; 15 Huntsville.

"Cherry Blossom"
Has Capacity House

"Miss Cherry Blossom" as given at the Masonic theater Thursday night
under the auspices of the Albany Parent-Teacher association, and directed by Mrs. Joe Pettet and Miss Gladys Bernardi, drew a large crowd, and
those attending the play expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the performance.

For two hours the changing scenes,
the beautiful music and the intensely
interesting story of the play, as acted
out by the fifty people taking part,
kept the large audience delighted and highly entertained. A number of vaudeville acts were given between acts by Messrs Spain and Englert
who are to put on the American Legion minstrel at the Princess theater Monday night. The ability of the two young actors was highly praised, and
those in charge of "Miss Cherry Blossom"
greatly appreciated their effort.

EXALTED CYCLOPS
PUT UNDER ARREST

(Associated Press)
MARION, Ill., Feb. 15—Carl Neil-
son, exalted cyclops of the Ku Klux Klan at Herrin, was under arrest today on ten charges of larceny, growing out of the wholesale dry raid conducted in this, Williamson County, recently. The Klan had been backing
the raids which resulted in last Friday night's disorders causing troops to be sent to the county.

It was learned today that Constable Ceaser Cagle, who was shot and killed in the disorders, had been indicted on the same count. Cagle had issued the warrants on which the raids were made.

John Arms and Arthur Barnwell,
of Johnson City, also were arrested
by the furnished bonds. They are charged with the theft of $200 from a home being raided.

pected to send full delegations.

CHANCES GOOD FOR

OPEN OFFENSIVE
AGAINST MALARIA

Sanitary Engineer and Health Department
Consider Move

The promised efforts of Dr. H. C.
McRee, and of N. H. Rector, sanitary engineer for the Tennessee Valley, who lives here, mean a really big local fight on the "anopheline" or in common parlance, the malaria mosquito.

The fight is already on. The county board of revenue has been enlisted
to aid in taking one of the major "positions" of the anopheline-viz their Dry Creek resort.

The board told Dr. McRee, that stream will be ditched by the county in the region traversed by it beyond Decatur toward the Tennessee river.

The cities have been hanging fire
on ditching the stream within the city
limits, due in part to the fact the city
fathers have not been talked to in terms of "money," that is, no cost sheets have ever been presented to them showing what the expense would be to straighten Dry Creek.

But Mr. Rector promises to not only make a survey of the creek similar to the one made by Colonel William D.
Wrightson, but says he will estimate
the cost of making the stream a non-mosquito breeding place.

Dr. McRee said many did not realize the slowness of Dry Creek's flow toward the Tennessee from the point
near the Louisville and Nashville shops where it rises. He said that because the creek ran so slowly made
it an ideal place for mosquitoes and
an "unideal" possession for people
who fear malaria.

"But," said Dr. McRee, "Dry Creek
has a fairly good fall as far as Moulton street. And if we ditch and straighten the stream to Moulton
street the water will come much faster then, and the 'tail' will thus send
the water along the more level reaches of the bed of the stream. Especially can we expect good results if the stream is straightened out clear to the Tennessee."

Most of Dry Creek is in the county's section of it, Dr. McRee pointed out,
and with the county authorities looking after their part, it looks like the cities could drain their part of Dry Creek.

Baptist Laymen
Returning Home

The majority of the members of the local delegation which attended the Baptist Laymen's Convention just closed in Memphis have returned home.

D. F. Green, general secretary of the Alabama Baptist convention, who was at the Memphis gathering, was here for a while visiting relatives on Friday on his way to his home in Montgomery.

Messrs. T. E. Williams, E. M. Lee,
and John P. Matlock report that the Memphis meeting was inspiring and largely attended. Mr. and Mrs. T. M.
Dix who were in Memphis during the convention, are expected home Saturday.

CLASSES FORMED

Robert D. Edwards, boys work secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., has organized the students of the Decatur high school into "playing classes"
and at stated periods in the day gives them opportunities to play indoor base ball, basket ball, hand ball and other games. As way opens Mr. Edwards expects to organize other "playing classes."

Denby and Fall Said to Have Negotiated for Coal Land Lease

LETTER IS LAID
BEFORE COOLIDGE

John E. Ballaine Causes
New Sensation at
Capitol Friday

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—Former Secretary Fall and Secretary Denby
were declared in a letter laid before President Coolidge today by John E.
Ballaine, an Alaskan railroad constructor, to have entered into negotiations in July, 1921, for transfer and lease of the rich Matanuska coal reserve in Alaska in the same line as
was followed in the Teapot Dome oil
lease.

The Alaskan coal lease was not
executed, but the letter said the navy department, largely through the efforts of Rear Admiral J. K. Robinson, had assiduously refused ever
since to permit use of Alaskan coal
by the navy.

Mr. Ballaine, who constructed the Alaskan Central railroad, the forerunner of the present government
lines, presented to the President, as a supplement to previous charges
that powerful interests are at work to hinder the development of Alaska. He also has presented charges to several senators, including Chairman Len-
root, of the senate oil investigating committee.

"The official files show that Secretary Fall, of the interior, and Secretary Denby, of the navy, began negotiations as early as July, 1921, for
the transfer of the navy coal reserve
in the Matanuska field from the navy
to the interior department and for
the leasing of that reserve for a period of 50 years," said the letter.

"The negotiations and the terms
agreed upon by the two secretaries in this coal reserve ran along lines exactly parallel with the terms of the lease of the Teapot Dome reserve."

"No lease of the Matanuska reserve
was executed, but the net result was
that naval operations in the Matanuska
fields was transferred by Secretary Denby to the interior department and abruptly closed, at a time when the navy, as official reports show, had a mine developed and equipped ready
to produce 250 tons a day with 600,000
tons blocked out in the mine and with 2,500,000 tons of the same quality in sight by diamond drilling in the Coal Creek district."

FUNERAL IS SET

Funeral services will be conducted
Saturday at Caddo Congregational church for Miss Lula May Lowery
who died yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Low-
ery. The services will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Rivers. The interment will be at Caddo church.

TRI-CITIES DELEGATION PLANS
TO ATTEND THE HEARING HERE

Delegations from the Tri-Cities will attend the hearing here Monday in connection with the petition of the Alabama Power company for permission to erect a transmission line in North Alabama, according to the Tri-
Cities Daily, which says:

"H. A. Bradshaw, W. H. Mitchell
and Secretary R. M. Jones were appointed this morning by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce
of Florence to attend the hearing of
the Alabama Power Company's petition to construct a transmission line
from Gadsden to Haggood which will come before the Alabama Public Service Commission Monday, February

Civic Meeting to Discuss the Line
Called Off Today

The meeting of members of the Albany-Decatur chamber of commerce scheduled to have been held at 7:00 o'clock Friday evening to discuss the petition of the Alabama Power company for permission
to build a transmission line through the Tennessee Valley, was called off today by a majority vote of the board of directors, according to an official announcement made this afternoon.

The announcement said that
word had been received that the Florence visitors, who had been expected to attend would be unable to be present, the fact that business houses will be open on account of this being the semi-
monthly pay day at the Louisville
and Nashville shops would prevent
many business men from attending, it was stated.

Many Blazes Keep
Firemen on Jump

Numerous blazes have kept the Albany firemen on the jump during the past few days. Chief Sorber today announced the following record:

residence owned by P. C. Goforth, occupied by W. E. Ryan; 1207 Third
avenue south, sparks on shingle roof.
Small loss.

10:45 o'clock, February 13, frame
residence owned by B. Crawford, occupied by E. S. Dollars, 1826 Fifth
avenue south. Sparks on shingle roof.
Small loss.

3:30 o'clock, February 13, corner
Thirteenth avenue and Moulton street
Decatur, grass burning. No loss.

9 p. m. February 14, frame residence of Connie Strickland, 517 Seventh avenue West. Flue burning out.

William Stewart
Called by Death

The body of William Stewart, formerly local resident, who died Thursday at Madisonville, Ky., will arrive
here on Louisville and Nashville train
number one Saturday. Funeral services will be held from the cemetery
chapel at 10 o'clock Saturday morning,
by Rev. J. L. Stockton and interment will be made here, with members of the Junior Order in charge. The deceased survived by four brothers
and one sister, a son and one daughter.

Mr. Stewart left here three years
ago and was engaged in the restaurant business.

Albany Office to Have Sub-Station

The postoffice department, beginning today, will operate a sub-station
in the Dillehay Drug Store, South Albany, with A. C. Dillehay, clerk in charge. Official announcement to this effect was made today by L. E. Huie Albany postmaster.

The appointment was the result of a special meeting of the directorate
called this morning for the purpose
of discussing the petition and what steps
the Muscle Shoals district should take
in the matter.

It was decided that the Florence
representatives will not appear before
the commission as a single unit but
will cooperate with representatives
from the Sheffield and Tusculum
chamber of commerce and from a chamber of commerce and from district, since the district and not any one of the Tri-Cities is vitally concerned
with disposition of the matter."

'EXPLAINS' OSSING
SPEECH AS EFFORT
TO HALT 'SCANDAL'

Doesn't Even Know the Price Marion Star
Was Sold For

TOOK STEP AS
PATRIOTIC DUTY

He Sought to Bring Out
the Truth and Scotch Ugly Rumors

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—The Senate oil committee went into the story
about the sale of President Harding's Marion Star today without finding any evidence to implicate Mr. Harding in the oil scandal.

Frank A. Vanderlip, who gave circulation to rumors about the Star, in a public speech, testified he had heard rumors only and knew none of the facts. The owners of the Star submitted a statement and the committee went no further.

Turning its attention to other matters, the investigating body heard from Thomas Johnson, foreman of Albert B. Fall's New Mexico ranch,
in which he made a flat denial that
he ever received any $33,000 payment from the Sinclair oil interests.
Reports of such a payment had been brought to the committee recently by Archie Roosevelt.

Meantime President Coolidge sent to the Senate the nomination of Owen
J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, as special government counsel in the place of Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, whom
the committee had found unacceptable.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—Frank A.
Vanderlip told the senate oil committee today that he had no facts to go on, whatever, when he brought the name of President Harding into the oil scandal.

His Ossing speech, asking for an inquiry into the facts surrounding the sale of Mr. Harding's Marion Star was made because he thought it a public
duty to call attention to current rumors, so as to stop them.

"I don't even know the price the paper sold at," Vanderlip said, "the current story sets it at $350,000."

The New York banker said that he prefaced his statement about The Marion Star by saying "there are rumors
emanating from Washington which are becoming current throughout the United States and are deeply affecting the public mind."

He regards the rumors, he said, as akin to the whispering campaign that marked the last months of the Harding campaign in 1920.

"I have full basis for what I said,"
he continued, "that these are current rumors."

"I have never heard any intimation
that the money paid for The Star came from oil interests. I thought my statement would bring up the truth
and kill those rumors."

"You thought it your public duty
to broadcast rumors which, if not true
were a reflection on the dead?" asked Senator Lenroot.

"I thought it my patriotic duty to bring out the truth and thus scotch
the rumors," was the reply.

"I was a life long friend of Mr.
Harding. I want to clear his memory.
That was my only purpose."

Questioned about his statement that the committee had not dared to push
the questioning of Albert Fall, Vanderlip said it was an impression he got from the newspapers. The witness admitted he had not read in the newspapers that Fall had claimed constitutional immunity, although the story
was published prominently by practically every paper in the country.

"Substantially I said there were rumors coming from Washington which went far beyond gossip," he continued.

COOLIDGE DEFIES THE SENATE
IN DENBY MATTER

President Coolidge's stand against ousting Secretary Denby at the behest of the Senate is taken on the ground that members of his official family and all other accused persons must have definite charges brought against them and proven before they are turned out. The President also takes the ground that the Senate resolution calling on him to oust Denby was improper. He refuses to take official notice of it.

Mr. Coolidge is quoted as saying as to the right of Denby to further trial:

"I do not propose to sacrifice any innocent man for my own welfare, nor do I propose to retain in office any unfit man for my own welfare."

"I shall try to maintain the functions of the government unimpaired, to act upon the evidence and the law as I find it, and to deal thoroughly and summarily with every kind of wrongdoing."

"As soon as special counsel can advise me as to the legality of these leases and assemblies for me the pertinent facts in the various transactions, I shall take such action as seems essential for the full protection of the public interests. I shall not hesitate to call for the resignation of any official whose conduct in this matter in any way warrants such action upon my part. The dismissal of an officer of the government, such as involved in this case, other than by impeachment, is exclusively an executive function. I regard this as a vital principle of our government."

In regard to it being his sole right to deal with Denby's and similar cases Mr. Coolidge quotes President Grover Cleveland as follows:

"President Cleveland likewise stated the correct principle in discussing requests and demands made by the Senate upon him and upon different departments of the government, in which he said: 'They assume the right of the Senate to sit in judgment upon the exercise of my exclusive discretion and executive function, for which I am solely responsible to the people from whom I have so lately received the sacred trust of office.'"

In his contention that the three departments of government, the judicial, the legislative, and the executive shall be kept separate and distinct, Mr. Coolidge quoted President Madison as follows:

"In discussing this principle, Mr. Madison has well said:

"It is laid down in most of the constitutions or bills of right in the republics of America, it is to be found in the political writings of the most celebrated civilians and is everywhere held as essential to the preservation of liberty, that the three great departments of government be kept separate and distinct."

In case Denby should be held as having committed "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors," the Senate might get a chance to try him if impeachment charges are brought against him in the House, "and the Senate acting as a court of impeachment may convict him by a two-thirds majority."

KNOWLEDGE CONCERNING AMOUNT OF WATER USED VALUABLE

In the office of the local water company appears two pictures. One of them is of a man described as having had all his water pipes made watertight. The other picture shows a man who has leaky water pipes. The two pictures were placed side after the Alabama Public Service Commission sion had approved metering the water used by each business house and home.

In the pictures referred to the face of the man who has leaky water pipes is all snarled up as if its owner wished to make a heavy kick at the amount of his quarterly water bill. The face of the man represented as having good water pipes is all smiles as he sees his water bill.

Regardless of how the metering of the water supply of the Twin Cities turns out, the records show that where the water used is measured, provided the plumbing is right, and the meter is right, the consumer, generally speaking, pays less money when using a meter than under the flat rate system.

A report issued by the Western Society of Engineers states that "in the city of Chicago one-half of the water pumped is wasted," or to be exact, "the report continues, 'Chicago uses 45 per cent of the water pumped and wastes 55 per cent.'"

The report also claims that each year the waste of water in the Windy City is increasing and "at the present rate of progress three and one-half gallons will be pumped for each gallon used."

Chicago's water supply is reported to be on "the flat rate" basis.

The meter is a gauge. It is a measure. It will tell just how much water is used, if it is not out of repair, or read improperly.

It would seem of value to know just where we "are at" as regards the amount of water used, for such knowledge will enable all to see whether or not they are paying too much or too little for their water supply.

THE HUNTSVILLE
MORNING STAR

The Huntsville Morning Star is a valuable acquisition to the exchange table of The Daily. The paper has a neat, clean-cut, dignified appearance. On all the pages of The Star appear valuable general news articles and many news stories which must be of much local interest to its readers. There appears a liberal amount of advertising matter, gotten up in good readable style. Evidently the people of Huntsville regard their morning paper as a valuable advertising medium.

The editorial page is an attractive one, with a display of many interesting editorial articles, including the editor's own column.

Those who have known of the newspaper accomplishments of Editor Doty are not surprised that he is giving Huntsville people such a splendid daily paper.

The Star makes the second splendid newspaper in Huntsville. The Times already publishes an excellent afternoon paper. The big question now is whether or not the city can support two papers instead of one.

MISSISSIPPI
AND SHOALS

The people of Mississippi are very properly concerned over the disposition that is to be made of Muscle Shoals. It appears, however, that any belief that the power trust's bid would confer any benefit upon Mississippi is based on a wrong assumption. Perhaps such belief was furtively fostered by the agents of the trust. As a matter of fact, just as Alabama will derive far more benefit from the industrial development contemplated by Ford than from the nationwide distribution of power contemplated by the power combine, so Mississippi benefits by the same development. Mississippi will need power for industrial development, to be sure, but it is believed that this power can be obtained with equal facility and in equal quantity regardless of the manner in which Muscle Shoals is disposed of.

On the other hand, Mississippi, being at present predominantly an agricultural state, may expect a far more prompt and direct benefit from the prospect of cheaper fertilizers, to say nothing of the possible industrial stimulus that may be felt as manufacturing makes its way southwestward. When Mississippi begins to develop industries she will go tap the transmission lines that cross or parallel her state lines, and will be in stronger position than if the Muscle Shoals current were lost in the super-power scheme. Besides that, there is to be considered the national and fundamental purpose for which Muscle Shoals was originally contemplated, namely, as a source of explosives in war emergency. That purpose is still active and impossible of being ignored. Mississippi may well trust the view of her able Senator Harrison, who is outspokenly and unequivocally for Henry Ford's offer.—Age-Herald.

The republican house will fall and great will be its fall, if it is shown to be erected on oil sands.

"Explains" Oasing
Speech as Effort
to Halt "Scandal"

"You heard it everywhere about this story."

"I believe that out of respect to President Harding's memory, this scandal, for I believe it scandal, should be coldly looked at."

He said he considered it a "patriotic duty to bring to the surface the thing because it was known in every newspaper office."

"Can you give this committee information on this subject?" Chairman Lenroot persisted.

"No, no legal information," Vanderlip answered.

"I have heard something about it in quarters which I respect. I have heard the price was $550,000 for a share in it with a consideration of $10,000 a year to be paid to a contributing editor."

Under questioning he said he understood that country papers were usually valued on basis of 12 per cent earning power.

"I have heard that the Marion Star earned around $30,000 a year, with $69,000 as the earnings for a particular good year."

"That would justify a value of $360,000 for the paper," Senator Lenroot interjected.

"Yes," Mr. Vanderlip continued.

"All the inferences were in these rumors that too much was paid for the paper, but I never said anybody connected with the oil business had paid any money in the transactions. I hoped that by bringing out the slander, you gentlemen on this committee would get at the truth and clear the memory of President Harding."

"Did you think it likely that truth would follow on the heels of slander," Chairman Lenroot queried, "that by uttering these things, which were slander, if not true, you were fulfilling a public duty?"

"Have you any other evidence regarding the oil scandals," asked Senator Dill.

"No, I have no evidence in this famous or infamous oil scandal," he said. He said he had never heard of the report of a $1,000,000 slush fund here until he saw this morning's paper and then he declared that testimony given before the committee yesterday indicated that the sources of information, "the newspapers are being poisoned."

"I can tell you gentlemen," he added "that the public is becoming suspicious of the information they are getting and of the integrity of the federal government."

"In this kettle of rumor there was matters concerning the shipping board the veterans bureau, the alien property office, all this is poisonous to the public mind."

"The public is losing confidence in the entire structure of government and press, with all this showing of publishers, instead of editors, running newspapers."

Lewis H. Brush, one of the men who bought The Marion Star from President Harding testified about details of the sale before the oil committee. The Marion publisher testified that he and Roy D. Moore had been the sole purchasers of the Star and that the funds had been their own, except such as they borrowed from Ohio banks.

Against these ordinary loans, he added, stock of The Star had been hypothecated as collateral for the loan.

BIRMINGHAM GETS
MODERN RAIL SHOP

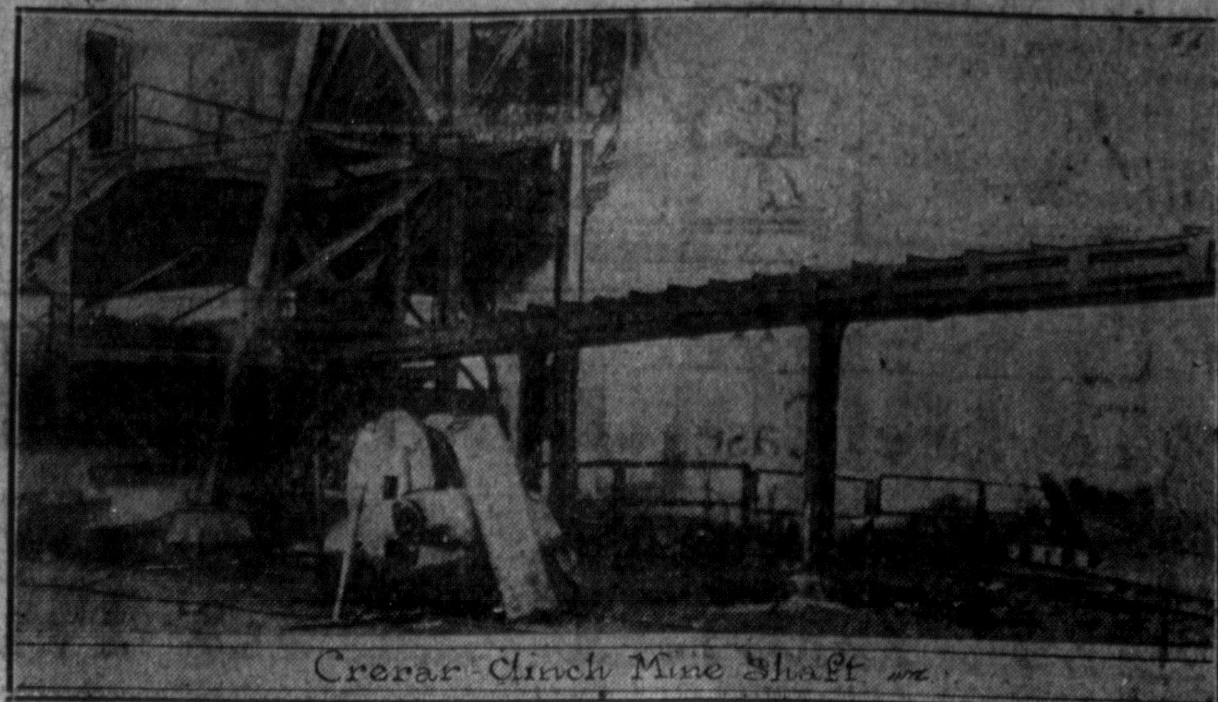

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15.—Construction of a modern locomotive and car repair plant, which would be the last word in shop construction and equipment, and which will give employment to 1,200 mechanics, will be begun in Birmingham at once by the Southern railway system, according to announcement made today by H. W. Miller, of Washington, D. C., vice president, in charge of operations.

While the announcement did not include the cost, it is stated locally the shop and its equipment will represent an investment of $3,000,000.

High Waterfalls.
The Victoria falls on the Zambesi river in Rhodesia, South Africa, are the highest falls in the world. They fall from a height of over 400 feet. Livingstone, the great African explorer, was the first European to see these falls, which he discovered in 1855. The Grand falls in Labrador are probably the highest falls in North America. They drop from a height of about 325 feet.

Deepest Mine.
The deepest mine in the world is in Brazil at St. John del Rey. It has attained a vertical depth of 6,720 feet. At that depth the temperature of the rock is 117 degrees Fahrenheit, necessitating a system of artificial cooling. The gold bearing ore at the bottom shows no signs of decreasing in volume.

30 KILLED IN ILLINOIS MINE EXPLOSION

The above photograph, taken immediately after an explosion which snuffed out the lives of 30 miners, shows the smoke of the blast pouring from the shaft of the Crerar-Clinch coal mine at Johnston City, Ill. Many other miners had narrow escapes.

Illness Fatal to
L. M. Whitman, Jr.

Funeral services will be held at Mount Hope church Saturday morning for L. M. Whitman, Jr., with interment in the church cemetery there. Mr. Whitman died this morning following a protracted illness. He is survived by his father, L. M. Whitman of Mount Hope, by his wife and by the following children: Claude and Roy Whitman and Miss Pearl Whitman.

The deceased is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Allie Anthony of Florence, Mrs. Fannie Jackson of Russellville, Dr. L. N. Whitman of Cullman, Dr. C. E. Whitman of Tusculum and E. D. Whitman of Albany.

E. D. Whitman will be out of the city for a few days on account of the funeral services for his brother. The deceased had visited here frequently and had many friends, who will mourn his loss.

YOUR HEALTH To Cure Case of Neuritis First Find Cause of It

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

YESTERDAY I told you what neuritis is and how it performs. It is a painful, persistent, exhausting ailment. While it does not impair or change the appearance of the part involved, unless it is very severe, yet it causes loss of sleep and may result in serious impairment of health.

What causes this uncomfortable disease? There are two general forms, speaking of the disease from its causation factors. The first we may call "primary" neuritis.

Exposure to cold is a common cause. Since the face is a part of the body most exposed to weather conditions, you will not be surprised to learn that neuritis of the facial nerve is a common expression of the disease when it comes from this cause.

We always associate pain in the nerves or muscles, pain which comes from exposure to cold, as having something to do with rheumatism. On this account this form of neuritis is sometimes called "rheumatic neuritis."

Direct injury of the nerve is another cause for primary neuritis. A blow on a nerve, or the tearing of the nerve from a wound—anything which places pressure on the delicate tissue or directly damages the nerve—any one of these accidents may produce neuritis.

Pressure of a tumor or injury of the nerve from death of adjacent bony tissues, may cause inflammation of a nerve.

More common than primary neuritis, however, is a form secondary to some other ailment. Any disease capable of producing toxins or poisons in the body may set up inflammation in one or more of the nerves.

The more sensitive and delicate the organ or the tissue, the more liable it is to the effect of a toxin. It is no wonder, then, that the finely made and sensitive nerves are easily disturbed by the absorption of bodily toxins.

Most of the infectious or contagious diseases are capable of generating poisons that may cause inflammation of a nerve. After diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever or typhoid, there may be violent neuritis. Malaria may cause trouble of this sort. Diabetes is another offender.

Abuse of alcohol is one of the most frequent causes of neuritis. This is particularly true of women who indulge this appetite. Their more delicate nerves do not resist the effects of alcohol.

It is not difficult usually to recognize alcoholism as the real cause of the pain and inflammatory changes. The mental and general effects of alcohol are readily observed.

Chronic arsenic poisoning, food poisoning and poisoning from other toxic agents may produce neuritis.

I never see a case without asking about teeth, tonsils, nasal cavities and intestinal tract. There is no doubt that absorption of bodily poisons may cause serious involvement of the nerves. Intestinal fermentation, chronic constipation, pussy gums, as well as the more deep-seated infections, have most to do with this trouble.

In the treatment, it is necessary to find and remove the fundamental cause. Until this is done there is little hope of speedy cure.

Absolute quiet is essential to the relief of an acute case. Hot applications and electricity are valuable. Great comfort may follow wrapping the affected part in cotton and then snugly bandaging. Fixation and support certainly relieve the pain.

Capiscum vaseline applied over the painful nerve and then covering the part with a hot, wet towel usually stops the aching for a little while.

The doctor will provide the necessary remedies.

Answers to Health Questions
M. M. Q.—What is the use of lanolin?
A.—Lanolin is used chiefly as a base for various ointments. It is very soothing to the skin.

L. A. C. Q.—My hair has been naturally curly, but now it is straight. Do you believe that wetting it in the morning would cause this, and is there any way I can restore it to its former condition?
A.—It is possible that wetting your hair so much has caused it to become straight. Try omitting the water in the morning. This may help to restore the curl.

MISS A. G. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what to do to correct stammering?
A.—This may be due to habit, or nervousness. Each day practice

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 16.
The sidereal operations for this day point to quiet and routine conditions, although there may be a breaking away from old obstacles. This may pave the way for future steady growth and substantial return in industry. Those in the employment of others should be careful not to offend. In the domestic circle there is a warning of disappointment or discord. Beware of subtle attack.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a rather quiet and routine year, although there may be a deliverance from some old congestion. Progress may be deferred, but not without future return for application and industry. A child born on this day should be disciplined against a tendency to be careless.

METAL CLOTHS AND TINTS FOR EVENING Copper, Bronze, Gold and Silver Now Are Popular

Fine Gold Lace is Edged Bronze Embroidery Trims This Only on Apron with Kolinsky.

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW
ONE of the smartest notes of the season is the use of metal fabrics, whether they be lace or soft metal tints. This Vogue follows through in other materials, for silks and chiffons often take on a sheen of silver or gold in their coloring.

There is a rich, deep copper color which comes in shimmering satin and makes one think of the metal itself, though there is no metal in the fabric.

The apricot chiffon which makes the effective little dance frock on the right blends perfectly with the bronze embroidery which trims the frock. This embroidery is done on a background of fine net and swings free from the frock in a shaped panel at the front and in narrow panels at either side. The line of the dress itself is slim and straight.

Fine gold lace makes the entire frock at the left. It is altogether simple in effect; the only trimming note being the apron of gold lace that adorns the front. This apron is edged in a deep band of kolinsky. The fur carries out the rich effect of the gold lace, and this feeling for the perfect blending of colors seems to be an outstanding note of the season.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Keeping the Torch Alight

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

A WELL-KNOWN American and his wife have gone to France to live. The wife has been visiting in France for some time.

She went there to visit the grave of her son who was killed in 1918 at the head of his company just in the very thick of the fighting.

He was a gallant fellow, that son of theirs, commander of a machine gun company. His men loved him with the gruff, half-hidden, half-brayed emotion of the every-day American. His superior officers respected and admired him, and the children in the little French village where he and his division were quartered, followed him around all day long, for he always had stories to tell them and songs to sing to them and his pockets seemed to be absolutely made of chocolate candy.

He could make toys, too, out of almost nothing, this American soldier, with his laughing eyes and his serious face. You should see the little cannon he made for Jean, the lame boy of the village, and the doll he brought to Jean's sister Marie when he came back from his leave in Paris.

The Last Sleep at Thicourt
Yes, he was a good deal of a man, the young American, who lies so sweetly asleep in the American cemetery at Thicourt only a few kilometers from Toul.

And his mother cannot bear to leave his grave and come home, so her husband has settled his affairs in this country and gone over there to spend the rest of his days with his wife near the grave of their only son.

What a sad idea and how strange! He is not there, this gallant young fellow, there under the grass in France. His coat is there, the garments that he wore there, but he is through with them and he has laid them down and gone away. Why make of the place where they are laid a fetish, or even an altar?

Such a soul as his cannot be held down in a narrow grave.

Winifred Black

The spirit that led his brave company gaily into the very jaws of death cannot be chained down like that. His body he has left behind him, that was not he, it was only a garment that he wore. You say when you speak of your hands not I do thus and so; but my hand does it. So it should be of the body.

My body is hungry, my body is cold, my body is tired—but I, me, the spirit, the soul, the person—ah, that is an entirely different affair.

Have you never heard, poor sorrowing mother, the story of the mother who wept and would not be comforted until one night she dreamed that she looked over the gates of paradise and saw a great procession of laughing children, all of them garlanded with flowers and bearing aloft lighted torches which they waved in childish joy?

The Handicap of Tears
Her own little boy she could not see, although she strained her eyes so eagerly. At last at the end of the procession she found him, his head hanging and his torch in his hand—unlit.

"Why are you not rejoicing with the rest?" said the mother. "And what has happened to your torch?" "Mother," said the little boy, "my torch was lit like the others, but your tears have put it out."

And the mother rose from that dream and bound her hair and smiled and met the world with a high head—and she wept no more. How do we know what we do to those we love when we try to tie them to this earth by our prayers and lamentations?

No, no, poor mother, he does not lie there in the earth in France. He has never lain there. Come home and keep his memory green by kindness and love to other mothers and to other sons. So may you send the son you loved on his way in peace.

Three-Minute Journeys By Temple Manning

VILLAGE WHICH ENSHRINES MEMOIR OF IRISH HISTORY
IN Irish stories are found frequent reference to the rock of Cashel, but tourists who visit Killarney, Giant's Causeway, Dublin and Belfast seldom include Cashel in their itinerary. Nevertheless, Cashel is one of the most interesting places in Ireland because of the survival here of interesting mementoes of early Irish history.

The town itself is little more than a village of three or four thousand hundred feet. Its summit is occupied by the most interesting collection of ruins in Ireland, which include the remains of St. Patrick's Cathedral, a round tower, Cormac's chapel and an ancient cross. The chapel, which is said to have been erected by King Cormac McCarthy, in the twelfth century, combines the ancient form of stone roof having chambers between the pitch and the vault with the richest Norman decoration. The cathedral was built in the thirteenth century with lancet windows and pointed arches and contains many interesting sculptures and tombs.

In a small cemetery nearby, where the ancient kings of Munster were crowned, stands on a rude pedestal the "Cross of Cashel," one of the most famous relics in Ireland. At the end of the cathedral stands the round tower, which is eighty feet high and fifty feet round. In shape it resembles the round towers which dot Ireland, particularly in the west. Their origin is lost in antiquity, but they are supposed to have been erected by the Danes in the seventh or eighth centuries as rallying points in case of native uprising.

According to Irish legends, two swineherds saw an angel blessing the Rock of Cashel, and this being reported to King Corc Macc, ruler of Munster, he established a stronghold there. In the year 1101 it was given to the Church by King Murka O'Brien. When King Henry II. of England invaded Ireland, he received the homage of O'Brien, King of Limerick, there. And once an Irish Parliament assembled at the Rock.

The cathedral was burned by the Earl of Kildare in 1495, and the Rock was taken by storm by one of Cromwell's generals in 1647. To the Irish peasantry the Rock is still an object of reverence.

Still an Object of Reverence.
soul, though it is still the see of a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church.

The so-called Rock is really a small mountain which rises abruptly from the plain to a height of three hundred feet.

On the bank of the Montreal River, about twelve miles from the town of Cobalt, Ontario, Angel Clemens, a carpenter, found a silver nugget weighing 3,200 pounds. It was estimated that the nugget would run fully 75 per cent silver and was worth $20,000.

Estimates place the total population of the world at 1,500,000,000. The value of the world's total stock of gold at the present time is estimated to be worth somewhere around $3,000,000,000.

If the population of South Africa continues to increase in the present ratio, within the next fifty years the white population will have grown to 4,000,000, while the blacks will number 27,000,000.

Your Circulation and Suppleness Depend on Proper Exercises

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

THERE is really no excuse in the world for a sluggish feeling and the generally anemic and unhealthy look that usually accompanies this feeling of lassitude. You probably know any number of people whom the foregoing words bring to mind. I'm sure you know women who seem slow and lazy and who seem so because they do not keep their general health up to a given standard.

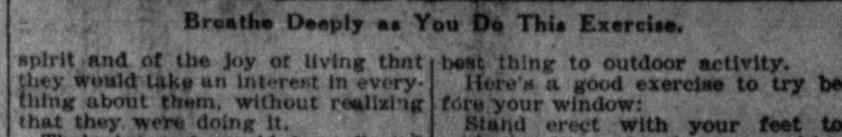

If they did this feeling of weakness and general debility would give way to such a spirit and keenness for life and what it has in store that they would soon be going about in such a state of alertness.

If they kept their blood circulating properly they would feel so full of life that they would be glad to stimulate themselves and bring about the keenness in life that you are missing.

Exercise is the way to do it, my friends. Exercise brings suppleness to your movements. It stirs up circulation and brings a glow to your cheek and a sparkle to your eye.

The word itself need not sound so formidable, for you can have a few simple exercises up your sleeve, so to speak, and use whichever one seems to pop into your head at the propitious moment.

Of course, if you can stir around out-of-doors and get real fresh air and invigorating exercise at the same time, so much the better. But if you can't you can stand before an open window and get the next spirit and of the joy of living that they would take an interest in everything about them, without realizing that they were doing it.

Their interest would be reflected in those about them, and they would find that their own sparks and enthusiasm found an answering gleam in those with whom they came in contact.

When you realize how much more joy there is in living this way, don't you think a small amount of effort spent in achieving this state would be fully worth while?

Of course it would. If you can't remember the time when you felt the glow just described, this is more argument than ever that you need best thing to outdoor activity. Here's a good exercise to try before your window: Stand erect with your feet together and your hands on your hips. Now turn your trunk from left to right taking care not to move your feet. You should feel a healthy pull on your abdominal muscles.

Now repeat this movement, turning from right to left. Next, make a complete circle with the upper part of your body and your head. Repeat this a number of times, breathing deeply as you go through the movements. This should help to make you supple and to stir up the healthy circulation that brings color and sparkle with it.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Madge Thought Everything Would Be All Right.
"It strikes me," ardently objected, and then with sudden bluntness, she added, "But if you're going, why don't you start?"

"We're just waiting for the taxi," I assured her. "And here it is," Lillian struck in, her quick ears detecting the chug of the motor which a few seconds later we all heard.

Getting the Children Ready.
The next few minutes were a bustle of preparation and departure. Jim, under our instructions, had the taxi brought round to the kitchen door, where no one expected it, possibly could see how many persons entered it. Lillian climbed into it and Marion, with a couple of traveling bags, one of which I had packed for the journey, followed her. I then, after a long drawn locomotive whistle told me that the train for which Lillian was bound was leaving Bridgehampton.

"Hurry, hurry," I said, anxiously, "want to get through this road as quickly as I can."

The children, huddled together in a group, looked as if they did not know whether to be frightened or elated at the mysterious journey. "Are we going to leave Grannie?" Rodrick demanded.

The Final Farewells.
His grandmother coughed valiantly in an attempt to hide a sob. I knew the possibility which she was foreseeing—that perhaps she never would see these loved grandchildren again. At her age anything in the future is uncertain, and she is not one to blink facts or try to evade them.

"Only for a little while, darling," she said, stooping to kiss him. "Be sure to bring Grannie something nice from the big shops."

Rodrick looked thoughtful. "Would you like a fire engine?" he asked with such grave consideration that in the effort not to hurt his baby feelings by laughter we older people lost some of the tension which was ours.

"Yes, I should like one very much," his grandmother returned while the older children gazed at her in wondering astonishment. I hurried them through the rest of the farewells. In another two minutes, with Edwin beside me in the front seat holding one of the boys, and Harriet with the other three children tucked away as comfortably as possible in the tonneau, I threw in the clutch and headed the car down the lane toward the pasture, from which led the winding wood road which was the first stage of our journey.

The rain was falling steadily, but the little electric cleaner ticked reassuringly, and moved steadily in its task of keeping the windshield clean. As I was as familiar with the road as with the contour of my own room, my spirits rose with every revolution of the wheels.

"If it only keeps like this," I said with a sigh of relief, "everything will be all right."

When the water in the kettle boils the kettle is filled with steam which attempts to escape. The steam is a comparatively small opening, and the pressure of the steam becomes great enough to cause the singing or whistling sound as it rushes through it.

School Teacher's Friends Made Glad

One of them had this to say yesterday. "We never thought that poor Ellen would ever recover, she had suffered so long from stomach and liver trouble and had lost more than 40 pounds in weight. She took a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy upon the advice of her aunt and has steadily improved from the first dose. We are all confident of her complete recovery." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Bl. druggists everywhere.—Advt.

Horse Latitude. Horse latitude is the name given to the belts of calm in the North Atlantic ocean between the region of westerly winds of the higher latitudes and the region of trade winds of the tropical zone. The origin of the name is not certainly known. Some authorities believe that it was derived from the fact that vessels with cargoes of horses were often so delayed because of the calms that the animals perished from lack of water.

Believed to be one of the largest instruments of its kind in the world, a drum with a diameter of eight and a half feet was recently used in a London picture theater to imitate the firing of cannon.

VALENTINE BRIDGE PARTY.

The Spring party season was opened on Thursday afternoon Valentine day, when the bridge playing contingent of the Twin Cities was invited by Mrs. Frank Lide and Mrs. George Wallace to play bridge at the Lyons hotel when they entertained for Mrs. Lide's mother, Mrs. R. C. Workman of Columbia, S. C., and Mrs. Wallace Carson, of Atlanta, Ga., who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John W. Jones.

Mrs. Lide received the guests at the dining room door in gorgeous black sequins gown and wore a corsage of American beauty roses. Mrs. Workman was attired in black canteen crepe with jet beads and her corsage was of red and white roses. Mrs. Carson was becomingly gowned in Nile green with a silk lace bertha and a corsage of roses. Mrs. Wallace wore black crepe with a cut steel design on the bodice and skirt and a corsage of roses. Mrs. Peck an attractive matron of Athens, was introduced in the receiving line.

A lovely Japanese sandwich basket was presented to Mrs. Ponsomby Kyle who made highest score: Mrs. D. G. Perkins was low on the cut for consolation souvenir, a red heart-shaped box of bonbons; the honoree gifts were a luncheon cover to Mrs. Carson and a bottle of perfume to Mrs. Workman.

The valentine motif was carried out in the tally cards, which were red hearts bearing a valentine greeting and the score pads were centered with red hearts. The refreshments, consisting of a salad, sandwiches and coffee, further emphasized this idea.

Those enjoying this lovely affair were the guest of honor and Mesdames T. M. Jones, Jr., William Voorhies, Stanley Wyatt, Milton Lipscomb, John W. BAPTIST SOCIAL.

The Circle Number Two of the First Baptist church proved themselves lovely hosts on Thursday evening when they had a social at the home of Mrs. B. F. Martin. The home was prettily decorated in scores of valentines for the occasion.

Contests were enjoyed, the most of interesting of which was questions to be answered with names of the members of the church, and the other most enjoyable feature was a mock trial. In this all the judges, the jury and the lawyers were women, this being leap year, and the most important case was the trial of Rev. Davison for putting this congregation to sleep at the church hour.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

MRS. SHEFFIELD, CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. Lester Sheffield entertained at a Valentine Bridge party on Thursday afternoon when she had as her guests the Thursday Bridge Club of which she is a member and the following supplementary guests, Mrs. J. T. Nelson and Mrs. J. G. McGehee.

The Womans Missionary society of Ninth Street Methodist church met at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. E. Thompson as hostess.

After the Bible study and some discussion, delicious refreshments were served.

Plans were laid for the social meeting, (a Washington Birthday party) to be given on the night of February 22, at the home of Mrs. Ross, 509 Ninth street South.

Red and Cayenne Pepper.

Red pepper is the powdered ripe pod, both flesh and seeds, of any variety of capsicum, the plant which gives us the edible fresh pepper, but which bears no relation to the true pepper plant. Cayenne pepper is, by ruling of the board of food and drug inspection of 1906, distinguished from red pepper as being obtained only from small-fruited varieties of capsicum.

DUEL BY BROTHERS RESULTS FATALY

(Associated Press)

WHITESBURG, Ky., Feb. 15.—Bob and Sam Bates, brothers residents of the "Troublesome Creek" section involved in a 45 calibre law to settle their quarrel and both today are dead. Enmity between the brothers is said to have resulted from a disagreement concerning settlement of an estate which included valuable coal and timber land, left by their father. Friends have prevented gun play on more than one occasion. Sam, a boy of 17, was said to have sent word to Bob that he would give him $100 to come within the vicinity of his home. Bob accepted the offer.

The brothers met on a mountain trail yesterday. They drew, fired and missed. A second round from the heavy weapons and both duelists dropped, fatally wounded.

AMUSEMENTS

What the Press Agents Say

What appears like a great miracle is performed by Larry Semon in "Horseshoes," which will be shown at the Princess theater on Friday and Saturday. In this film, which critics have declared to be the funniest of all his comedies, Larry grows short or tall at will. Sometimes he is scarcely three feet in height and without warning he assumes his natural size.

In making these sequences Larry did not resort to camera tricks or double exposure. The process used is in accordance with a natural law and may be accomplished by every person who sees the picture. No secret is made of this remarkable discovery of Larry's which may prove a great blessing to those who are dissatisfied with their stature. Full directions accompany the picture and every step is illustrated in the film. Every person who desires to be possessed of this useful information which defies the Bible question, "which one of you by taking thought can add a single cubit to his stature?" should see this picture. Larry thought and then found a simple means of becoming a dwarf at will.

Lowlanders Taller. Measurement of 30,301 Swiss army recruits indicates that men from the lowlands are taller than those from the mountains, height varying nearly two-tenths of an inch according to geographical altitude.

Bamboo Organ.

A bamboo organ in the Catholic church of Los Pinos, near Manila, Philippine Islands, was built about 1818 by a Spanish priest, who used more than 900 lengths of bamboo in the construction. Every part is of bamboo and the organ is still used every week by the Belgian priest in charge.

Athens News

The Athens Kiwanis club held the regular meeting and enjoyed the dinner at the club house on Houston street on Tuesday evening. The meeting was characterized with a fine spirit. Prof. "Bill" Johnson of the agricultural college made an interesting talk on "Why Kiwanis appeals to me." Hon. Fred Wall spoke briefly of "comradship." The club manifested considerable interest in road building in Limestone. A committee of C. W. Sarver and Roy Patton, with M. K. Clemons as alternate, was appointed to attend a meeting of the commission in Montgomery at an early date and present the claims of Limestone. At a meeting of the commercial club later on Tuesday evening, W. E. Willis and A. D. Carter were appointed to appear before the committee in Montgomery for the same purpose.

Rabon Lee Hargro, aged 35, died at the home of his father in Athens on Monday evening of congestion on the brain. He has been feeble for some weeks and the end was not unexpected. His body was buried at Isom's Chapel, seven miles east of Athens, on Wednesday afternoon after services at the church by Dr. J. O. Williams. He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his loss, also a father, mother, one brother and one sister.

Howard College Glee club will appear in Athens on Friday evening of this week in their excellent season's program. They are brought to Athens under the auspices of Athens Study Club. Considerable interest is being shown in the coming of this fine group of entertainers and it is expected that they will have a great crowd at the Athens college auditorium to hear them.

Dr. C. A. Steele, pastor of the First Methodist church of Decatur, delivered the second in a series of lectures at Athens College on Thursday evening of this week. His subject for the evening was "Backbone."

W. T. Sanders, Jr., has returned from Washington, where he spent last week in connection with the Lee Highway Association. He states that he had personal conversation with many of the officials from Alabama in Washington and all of them are enthusiastic over Ford getting Muscle Shoals and believe it is secure. Mr. Sanders was in Washington when ex-President Wilson was buried and stood before the great home while the funeral services were being held and followed the remains to the cathedral.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH OF LENIN'S FUNERAL

Rejuvenated

Prominent retired merchant says he feels like new man since Tanlac relieved him of his troubles. Can now outwalk men 20 years younger. E. Boyd, 5000 Fourteenth street

N. W., Washington, D. C., for forty-eight years prominent hardware merchant in the national capital, but now retired, lends his name to further the cause of Tanlac. "Indigestion and stomach weakness of a very pronounced type had troubled me for several months prior to last October fifteenth," said Mr. Boyd recently, "but since that date the Tanlac treatment has made a new man of me. Now I eat heartily, never have a sign of indigestion, sleep like a log and get up mornings feeling like an athlete. Today I can outwalk men twenty years younger. Tanlac alone put me in my present fine physical condition, enabling me to get more real pleasure than ever before out of meeting and mingling with friends. Tanlac has rejuvenated me completely so to speak. It's the finest medicine I ever ran across."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Sudanese Eat Lizards and Ants.
Natives of the Sudan, who now number about 5,000,000, subsist chiefly on a diet of roots, berries, insects, and such animals as lizards, white ants and dried caterpillars. In some spots in their land the finest cotton in the world is raised. An English party recently made a 2,500-mile trip across the Sudan to Belgian Congo, and among other things discovered that the population has doubled in the last twenty years, while the big game of the country is rapidly disappearing from the jungle with the advance of even primitive settlements.

Sawdust and Ashes.
The latest substitute for cardboard and wood in the making of boxes is a chemical composition of sawdust and ashes. The finished boxes are light, washable, sanitary and nonpoisonous. They are waterproof and as fireproof as asbestos, and can be made in any degree of flexibility or texture, either as hard as oak, tough as metal or as pliable as cardboard.

Arrest Spanish Crooks.
The men working the "Spanish prisoners" confidence game have been run down and arrested by the police of Barcelona, Spain. The police found carefully-kept files of names and addresses of persons from whom money might be obtained. Employees of the Barcelona telegraph office were apprehended among others.

Slot Machines in Ancient Egypt.
Ancient Egypt boasted a "penny-in-the-slot" machine, while one explorer found in the ruins of Nineveh a kind of magnifying glass, and nearly four thousand years ago the Egyptians and Assyrians observed the stars through a primitive telescope.

The Mourning Band.
The custom of wearing a black band on the coat sleeve in token of mourning came from England. It was introduced there for liveried servants whom it was not thought necessary to fit out in black uniforms.

There's a Reason.
It isn't easier to write plays than to write novels; but if they are successful, they pay much better; so novelists strive to be play writers.
